

Advanced Emergency Medical Technician

Program and degree information

Upon successful completion, the candidate is eligible to receive a Technical Certificate and challenge the National Registry exam to obtain National Certification as an Advanced Emergency Medical Technician and apply for a Tennessee State license as an AEMT. Information is available from the Tennessee Department of Health, Emergency Medical Services Board. Initial AEMT License Requirements in TN are available online.

The National Registry certification is used by 46 states as a basis for licensure. Students pursuing this program who live outside of Tennessee or plan to move to another state are warned there may be additional requirements needed to obtain licensure or certification in another state. Consult the appropriate state licensing/certification board to determine if the chosen program of study will meet the requirements in the state(s) where you intend to seek employment. Some states do not currently identify Advanced EMT as a licensure level at this time of this review and are shown Not Available. Columbia State has not determined if requirements are met for licensure in all states or territories of the United States. These states are identified as “Does Not Meet.” Even if identified in the table below as Meets, it is possible requirements have changed since last reviewed. Please contact the appropriate licensing board in the state where you intend to seek licensure regarding the requirements in that state. Students needing additional information can contact the Columbia State program officials via email provided. A quick reference to contact the Office of EMS in every state is available at <https://www.nremt.org/resources/state-ems-offices>.

Notes:

- States identified with Approval through Reciprocity are member states in the United State Emergency Medical Services compact. EMS practitioners with a valid, unrestricted EMS license in one Compact Member State have a “Privilege to Practice” recognized in all Compact Member States. These states may require applicants to hold a current National Registry of Emergency Medical Technicians (NREMT) certification at the level of application and/or require an active licensure through the state in which they are transferred from. This process may require completion of verification documents from the State licensure board and/or verification documents from the institution completing the initial education requirements. Additional information on The EMS Compact and an updated list of current member states is available at <https://www.emscompact.gov/>.
