PURPOSE

To define the normal workload for full-time faculty.

POLICY

- I. All full-time faculty, shall be required to devote a minimum of 37.5 hours per week to the Institution, and shall maintain appropriate office hours as determined by the president (or his or her designee).
- II. A normal teaching load is thirty (30) credit hours or the equivalent for the academic year. For selected courses where the contact hours exceed the credit hours, an adjusted load may be determined. (See Columbia State Policy 05:21:00, Instructional Workload Equivalencies.)
- III. Faculty teaching loads shall include such scheduled combinations of day, evening, weekend and multiple location classes as the needs of the College dictate.
- IV. Teaching Overload
  - A. There is no expectation that any faculty member teach an overload. However, faculty who wish to teach an overload may volunteer to do so, if part-time faculty members are not available.
  - B. Faculty teaching more than 15 credit hours or the equivalent for one semester shall be paid for the overload. The overload rate per credit hour of faculty load based on academic rank is the minimum rate defined in TBR Guideline P-055.
  - C. The dean may approve substitution of released time for overload pay, if the released time can be taken during the following academic year semester and the department course schedule that semester can be fully staffed without the faculty member teaching his or her normal semester load.

Office Hours

- A. To assist individual students, each full-time faculty member shall post on his or her office door a schedule defining office hours for the semester. Faculty are expected to schedule 15 hours per week as office hours. Faculty may post up to five virtual office hours of the required fifteen for any one of the following situations:

- a. Their teaching schedule requires weekly travel to more than one location.
  - b. They are teaching two or more evening classes.
  - c. They are teaching Internet, hybrid, or web-enhanced courses with significant on-line interaction.
- B. The distribution of office hours during the day, evening, and weekend and at each scheduled campus location should approximate the various course assignments and take into consideration the needs of the student groups with whom the faculty member is working.
- C. Posted office hours are intended to provide regularly scheduled hours during which faculty shall be available to students. It is assumed faculty will also be available outside of posted office hours, as needed, to assist students and participate in college/division activities.
- D. Scheduled time blocks should not be less than thirty minutes.
- E. Faculty members must submit a copy of their posted office hours to their dean for approval within one week of the start of the semester.
- F. Office hours may be temporarily rescheduled for up to one week with approval from the dean and appropriate notification to students.
- VI. Other components of the faculty workload include but are not limited to committee work, student advising, participation in professional activities, work with student activities, departmental/division service, institutional service, and community service.
